Pastor's Comment on ACA progress:

I attended several diocesan meetings where we were told not to suggest a statistical average minimum amount for each parishioner to pledge. It was pointed out that such an approach ignores two important universal realities. One, not every parishioner participates and two, most (certainly not all) parishioners are able to manage way more than that minimum figure. We (i.e. pastors) are supposed to challenge each parishioner to stand up to the plate and be all they can be, or to pledge all they can pledge. Personally, I like this electronic giving. I think of a total I would really like to give ($600.) divide it by six, and let them take $100 out of my checking account monthly. It stings just a little each month instead of knocking me for a loop all at once. And, I've justly, charitably, and relatively painlessly fulfilled my responsibility to this annual appeal for help from my bishop and my parish.

Monday, May 31	Graduations occasion thoughts on education. My thought is this. Any fairly competent educator can claim, with a relative degree of legitimacy, to be educating his students for college and for this life. What is different about a Catholic educator is that she can claim, without fear of contradiction, to be educating her students for eternal life.

The Body and Blood of Christ

From The Catechism of the Catholic Church

237 The Trinity is a mystery of faith in the strict sense, one of the "mysteries that are hidden in God, which can never be known unless they are revealed by God". To be sure, God has left traces of his Trinitarian being in his work of creation and in his Revelation throughout the Old Testament. But his inmost Being as Holy Trinity is a mystery that is inaccessible to reason alone or even to Israel's faith before the Incarnation of God's Son and the sending of the Holy Spirit.
