We are pleased to announce that the estate of Helen Kasun has released the last $4,393.68 payment of the $16,992.35 she bequeathed to the parish of Our Lady of Fatima. The entire sum was used to repair the windows on the front of the church.

We are also pleased to announce that the estate of Diane Kaczmarek has issued a single check in the amount of $29,388.86 to the SS. Peter and Paul Roman Catholic Cemetery Endowment Fund. These monies are restricted for investment by the Independent Catholic Foundation for the Diocese of Altoona-Johnstown, the interest from which is used for cemetery up-keep.

IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

There are 1.37 Million reported abortions per year.
There are approximately 3,700 abortions per day.

In 10 days Catholics can change this by their votes.

Who's having abortions (religion)?

Women identifying themselves as Protestants obtain 37.4% of all abortions in the U.S.; Catholic women account for 31.3%, Jewish women account for 1.3%, and women with no religious affiliation obtain 23.7% of all abortions. 18% of all abortions are performed on women who identify themselves as "Born-again/Evangelical".

You Wouldn't Even Ask...

by Fr. Frank Pavone, National Director, Priests for Life

If a candidate who supported terrorism asked for your vote, would you say, "I disagree with you on terrorism, but where do you stand on other issues?"

I doubt it.

In fact, if a terrorism sympathizer presented him/herself for your vote, you would immediately know that such a position disqualifies the candidate for public office -- no matter how good he or she may be on other issues. The honor of terrorism dwarfs whatever good might be found in the candidates plan for housing, education, or health care. Regarding those plans, you wouldn't even ask.

So why do so many people say, "This candidate favors legal abortion. I disagree. But I'm voting for this person because she has good ideas about health care (or some other issue)."

Such a position makes no sense whatsoever, unless one is completely blind to the violence of abortion. That, of course, is the problem. But we need only see what abortion looks like, or read descriptions from the abortionists themselves, and the evidence is clear. (USA Today refused to sell me space for an ad that quoted abortionists describing their work because the readers would be traumatized just by the words!)

Abortion is no less violent than terrorism. Any candidate who says abortion should be kept legal disqualifies him/herself from public service. We need look no further, we need pay no attention to what that candidate says on other issues. Support for abortion is enough for us to decide not to vote for such a person.

Pope John Paul II put it this way: "Above all, the common outcry, which is justly made on behalf of human rights -- for example, the right to health, to home, to work, to family, to culture -- is false and illusory if the right to life, the most basic and fundamental right and the condition for all other personal rights, is not defended with maximum determination" (Christfideles Laid, 1988).

False and illusory. Those are strong and clear words that call for our further reflection.

"I stand for adequate and comprehensive health care." So far, so good. But as soon as you say that a procedure that tears the arms off of little babies is part of "health care," then your understanding of the term "health care" is obviously quite different from the actual meaning of the words. In short, you lose credibility. Your claim to health care is "illusory." It sounds good, but is in fact destructive, because it masks an act of violence.

"My plan for adequate housing will succeed." Fine. But what are houses for, if not for people to live in them? If you allow the killing of the children who would otherwise live in those houses, how am I supposed to get excited by your housing project?

It's easy to get confused by all the arguments in an election year. But if you start by asking where candidates stand on abortion, you can eliminate a lot of other questions you needn't even ask.

Faithful Christians, Faithful Citizens

"Every voice matters in the public forum. Every vote counts... We encourage all citizens, particularly Catholics, to embrace their citizenship not merely as a duty and privilege, but as an opportunity meaningfully to participate in building the culture of life." (United States Bishops, "Living the Gospel of Life," n.34)

Our bishops and the Holy Father have urged us to be faithful and active citizens. As we approach our national elections, Priests for Life has prepared resources to help you to carry out your civic responsibilities and to evaluate candidates and issues in the light of the moral law. You will find these resources at
